By Telegram to The Freeman.
Vienna, June 21.—The Russians are retreating all along the line in Galicia. It is officially announced. The Teutonic allies have won another important victory over the Russians west of Lemberg and it is believed that the capture of the city by the Austrians and Germans is now only a matter of a few days.

The text of the official statement follows:
"The continuation of the strong offensive operations by the Austro-German armies resulted, on Saturday, in a battle at Magierow and Grodek, where a new complete victory was won."

"After we had crossed the San river and recaptured Przemyśl, the enemy, who had been heavily reinforced, was compelled by the success of the Teutonic allies between the Lubaczowka river and the upper Dniester river to retreat still further last Tuesday. The enemy suffered heavy losses."

"Since 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon the Russians have been retreating all along the whole battlefield in the direction of Lemberg, from both the north and the south, hotly pursued by our armies."

"Thousands of Russian prisoners have been captured together with great quantities of war material. On the upper Dniester the enemy was compelled to evacuate his position. The Russians attacked the troops of General Pflanzer and General Babin, but were repulsed at every point with heavy losses."

FRANK GOES TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Death Sentence Commuted to Life Imprisonment by Governor of Georgia and Brooklyn Man is Whisked Away to Prison.

Atlanta, Ga., June 21.—The death sentence of Leo M. Frank has been commuted to life imprisonment and the Brooklyn man who was to die tomorrow for the death of little Mary Phagan was removed secretly from the jail here early today. Under a heavy guard he was taken aboard a Georgia Central train for Macon. There he was placed in an automobile to be taken to the state prison farm at Milledgeville, 50 miles distant.

Official announcement of the commutation of Frank's sentence was withheld by Governor Slaton who declined to make any statement on the case. A statement from the governor was expected later today.

Efforts made early today to get an official statement on the commutation of Frank's sentence were met by silence on the part of all officials connected with the case. Gov. Slaton at his country home refused absolutely to discuss the case.

With reporters watching the jail, Frank was slipped out of a back door and rushed to the railroad station. There tickets were purchased and the party boarded the train.

Frank was taken from an ambulance to the station and it was supposed the passenger was a sick man. From Atlanta to Macon, the trip was without incident. Few people on the train knew that Frank was on board.

At Macon the train was met by an automobile. Frank and his guards left the train and entered the machine. The party left at once for the state farm at Milledgeville, where he will probably be given some light work.

The prisoner had little to say about his case or about the action of the governor in commuting his sentence when approached by reporters in the car. Sheriff Mangum said that the governor had commuted the sentence early in the night and that the plans had at once been made for the taking of Frank secretly to the state farm.

The governor intimated that he will give out his opinion on the case today, why he acted and why he believed that the sentence should be commuted.

ALLIES' POSITION SHELLED BY TURKS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

In order to protect himself from our coast artillery the enemy changed his positions several times. He was also shelled by German batteries."

GERMANS BOMBARD LEMBERG FORTS

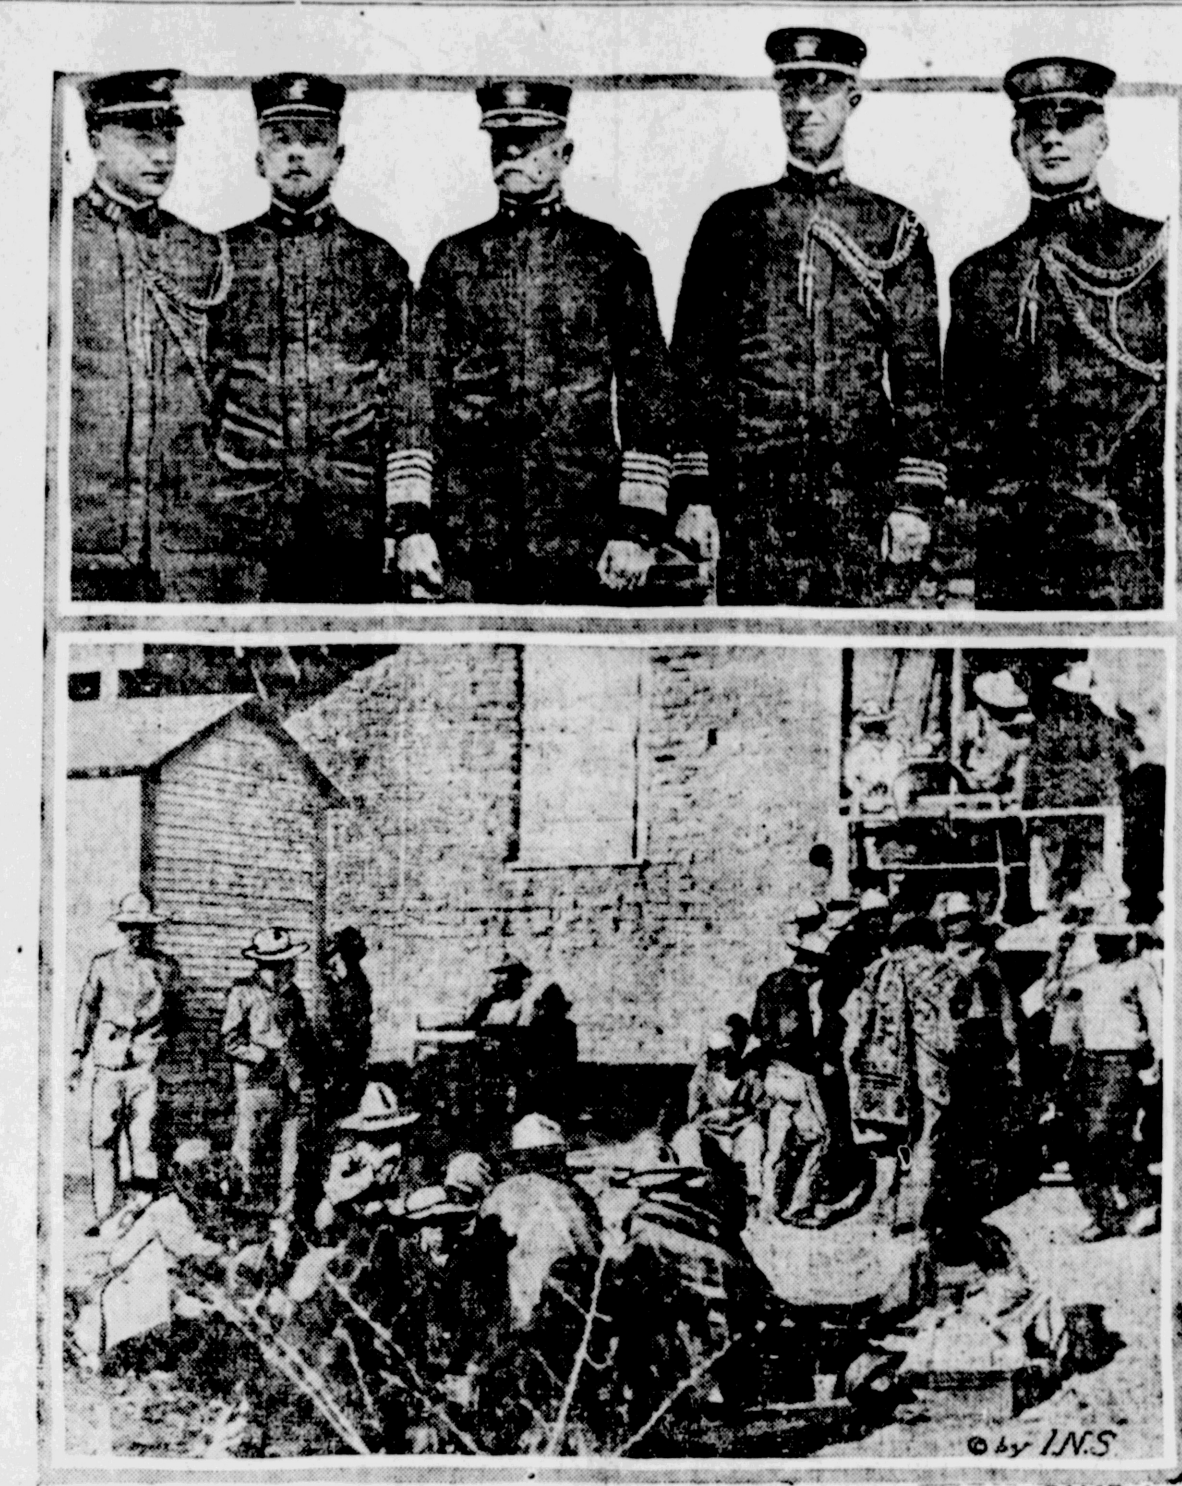

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Dispatches from the Galician front stated that the Russians are in retreat all along the line, following their defeat at Grodek and Magierow and on the Wereszya riverfront.

Admiral Howard was ordered by the war department to land blue jackets and marines if necessary to protect American lives. General Villa has ordered Col. Moytoreno, Governor of the State of Sonora, in which the scene of action is located, to proceed there with troops and quell the insurrection of the Indians, who have declared war on Mexico, the United States and Germany. This was done, it is said, to prevent the necessity arising for the landing of American troops.

TESTING AUTO FIRE TRUCK

Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Murphy had the new auto truck on Snyder avenue testing the pressure of the water in the mains near Hurley avenue Saturday. It was found that without the pump on a stream could be thrown ten feet but that with the pump of the auto truck working a stream could be thrown sixty feet. So that it can be seen that without the pump the water supply in that section would be entirely inadequate. Sufficient water was obtainable, however, from the mains, water being pumped all the way from Washington avenue. While the work was in progress the housekeepers in that section were unable to secure any water from their faucets. The work was witnessed by Fire Commissioners William S. Eltinge and Louis Kolts, who were greatly pleased with the results of the pump.

DR. SILVER SPEAKS TO GRADUATES

The great importance of a life program for the school boy or girl was emphasized by the Rev. H. P. Silver, chaplain of the United States military academy at West Point, in his baccalaureate address at the new high school Sunday evening.

In opening Dr. Silver thanked the two classes for the very great compliment which they bestowed on him by inviting him to address them for two successive years. In substance he spoke as follows:

"The school system is the mightiest force for righteousness in the land. We military men look to the school for our armies and defenses of the future. But how much interest does the average citizen take in the school system. Evidently Kingston people are very much interested for they would have never built the fine building in which the exercises are being held."

"I wonder as I stand here, how much of the learning which you have gathered in the past four years you will retain and how much of that which you will retain will be used by you in life. Don't be afraid to pass on any knowledge which you may have. Knowledge is a mighty force. It harmonizes the universe."

"In the four years you have learned at least one thing, that being how to use your brains, and when you have done that you have learned a whole lot. Learn to work without a great effort, without giving yourself on the small things of life."

"We all hope that you all have arranged for some life of usefulness. Everyone from their early childhood should have some idea of what they want to be when they become of an adult age. We all pity the boy or girl without a vocation."

"In the book of Genesis is a phrase which you would do well in taking as a motto. It is 'In the beginning, God.' What you need is faith. You need it as a shield in the battles of life which are constantly being waged. Life is one continued struggle and unless you are protected by the shield of faith you are pretty certain to fail."

"The greatest obstacles in the life of a man are idleness and indifference. Idleness is the greatest enemy and is the greatest obstacle of the human race. Do the right thing no matter what the cost, for there is always some compensation and the right will be rewarded and the evil punished."

"The word character comes from the Greek and means to carve. As you go through life carve out your character and be sure it is a good one. It is the most valuable asset that you will have in life and is a permanent fixture."

"The greatest force which we have on earth is God's gift of prayer, which is given to the rich and poor alike and the weak and the strong as well. It can accomplish more than any other force on earth. Be sure to study. How many men study. They may look over the newspaper or the trade journal, but how few of them get down to the fundamental principles affecting our civilization."

"Think right, and when you think right you will act right. But you will not think right unless you live in accordance with the great Thinker, and having lived right it will be said to you 'Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of the Lord.'"

In introducing Dr. Silver Superintendent Michael complimented the graduates for their good judgment in selecting Dr. Silver. Mr. Michael also spoke of the application of the word commencement. It certainly is the commencement of the lives of the young people who are graduating.

The exercises were opened by a Scripture reading by the Rev. W. F. Stowe and a prayer by the Rev. H. P. Baragwanath. A double quartet composed of members of the various choirs about town rendered a selection before the service and Chauncey Mains sang a solo.

The exercises closed with the singing of America and benediction by Rabbi Ed. H. H. H.

NEW YORK MUST PAY MR. CRISPELL

Milton O. Auchmoody, as attorney for Van Ransler Crispell of the town of Olive, made application at the Hudson special term on Saturday for a peremptory writ of mandamus directing the comptroller of the city of New York to pay to Mr. Crispell the sum of $223. The latter was employed for many years at the Willow Brook boarding house as a chef. He lost this employment when the city of New York took the property in connection with the water supply project. Crispell filed a claim for damages, and he also had a business claim. He made settlement by agreement with the board of water supply in September, 1912, by the terms of which he was to receive $223. The department of finance of the city refused to pay him, alleging that the claims were illegal. On the argument before Judge Cochrane, a representative of the corporation appeared in opposition to the motion, and stated the objections of the comptroller and also claimed Mr. Crispell's remedy, if he had any, was to bring an action against the city. Judge Cochrane said, however, that since the city did not deny an agreement had been made to pay, an agreement was binding, and could be enforced by mandamus.

VAN AKEN SENT TO DEATH CHAIR

Judge Jenkins Denies Motion to Set Aside Jury's Verdict in Murder Trial.

Edwin Van Aken's motion to set aside the verdict of murder in the first degree was denied by Judge Jenkins in county court today and he was sentenced to receive the death penalty according to law in the Sing Sing state prison at Ossining during the week beginning August first.

After sentence had been passed on him, Van Aken showed signs of emotion. His mouth twitched convulsively for an instant and his eyes filled with tears. He swallowed hard several times and apparently regained his self control. No more tears showed in his eyes, but the eyes themselves became somewhat reddened and bloodshot. He spoke a few words with his counsel, Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier, City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., and District Attorney Frederick Stedman and then followed Under Sheriff Scott D. Hornbeck out of the court house and to the jail. He was without emotion; apparently, as he passed through the crowd.

INFER THAT TWO JURORS DROCK

Argument on the motion to set aside the verdict and for a new trial was begun by Mr. Brinnier at eleven o'clock and he talked for half an hour. Mr. Brinnier made up for the vehemence which his summing up to the jury had lacked, and both he and District Attorney Cunningham, who replied to the same length of time, referred to each other sarcastically at times.

To his other grounds for the motion, Mr. Brinnier added a new one. It appeared by inference from the affidavits produced by the district attorney, he said, that at least two jurors had been using intoxicating liquors during the trial, ten jurors swore they had not used any intoxicating liquors, but such statement was missing from the affidavits of Jurors John Rourke of this city and Riley Van Aken of Denning.

HENRY SIEGEL GETS TEN MONTHS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Geneseo, N. Y., June 21.—Henry Siegel, former merchant prince of New York, who was convicted of accepting deposits for the private bank he operated in connection with his store when it was insolvent gave him, self up to the court here today to serve the 10 months' sentence imposed upon him last November. After his conviction and sentencing Siegel was given six months liberty under a stay to earn money to pay back as much of the $2,200,000 he owed the 15,000 depositors as he could. The offer of $150,000 on account made by Siegel recently was not presented to the court for its consideration. The decision on Siegel's part to accept and serve his sentence was due to a determination of a minority of depositors to force more money out of him under penalty of further prosecution.

VATICAN MAINTAINS STRICT NEUTRALITY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, June 21.—A remarkable interview with Pope Benedict XV, in which the Pontiff is quoted as saying that the Vatican will maintain the strictest neutrality, is published today by the newspaper La Patrie Libre.

According to this newspaper the Pope refused to judge the atrocities in Belgium, saying:

"They were committed, if at all, under the reign of my predecessor, Pope Pius X."

When asked for an expression of opinion on the destruction of Louvain, His Holiness replied:

"The Germans say their troops were shot down by snipers. The Vatican isn't a court of justice. It isn't for me to judge. Our only judge is in heaven."

Asked for an opinion about the destruction of the Lusitania by a German submarine, the Pope is quoted as saying:

"I've never known of a more frightful crime. It is terrible to see our generation the prey of such horrors. My heart is torn by them, but it is possible to believe that the blockade drawn about the central empires (Germany and Austria) which condemns millions of innocents to famine, was inspired by really human sentiments."

SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY

BRITAIN TO SEND AGENT TO U. S. DISSATISFIED WITH MORGAN FIRM.

(Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.)

The discontent with the manner in which J. P. Morgan and Company have employed their position as purchasing agent for war munition for the British government, has led David Lloyd George, Minister of Munition, to announce that he is going to send a "prominent business man" to America to go into the whole business of American and Canadian contracts for war materials.

It is understood that this agent will be Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, who was summoned to England some time ago for a conference with Lord Kitchener on the subject. The Morgans, it is alleged have profited unfairly by the contracts they have placed in this country.

High Woods.

High Woods, June 21.—Several of our residents attended the parade at Kingston on Thursday.

The recent rains were very much appreciated.

The Rev. Mr. Polhemus occupied the pulpit on Sunday last. Communion services were held on that day.

Harry Lasher and family of Brooklyn recently visited his mother, Mrs. Slater.

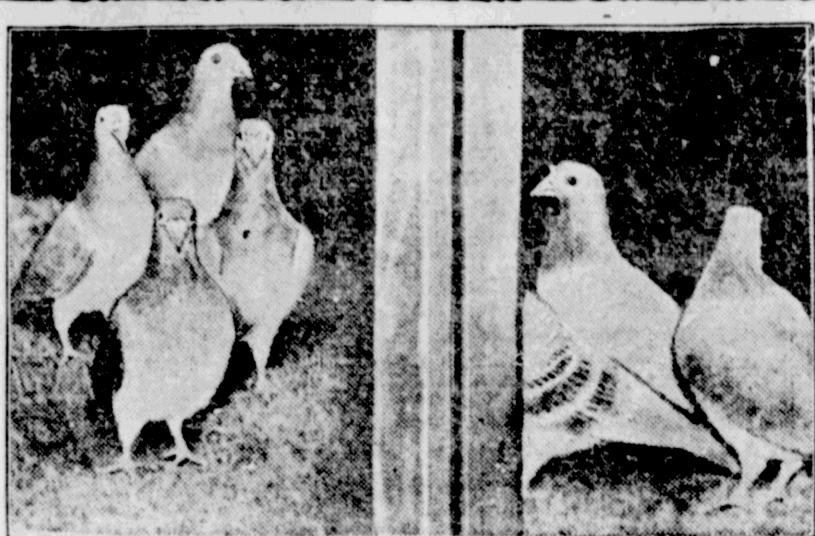

During the first few days we have had some genuine summer weather, the thermometer registering 90 degrees in the shade.

Charles Carle, who has been working in Kingston, has returned home.

Miss Sophia Short, who has been visiting her brother, has returned to Saugerties.

The Rev. Mr. Hoag was in this place Monday. His many friends are glad he is able to go about as usual.

PIGEON-RAISING IS MOST PROFITABLE

Loft of Homer Pigeons.

With squabs selling at from 35 to 50 cents each it would seem that pigeon raising would be highly profitable, but our advice is to go slow before engaging in the business to any considerable extent.

Pigeon raising is really a specialty and one is hardly able to make a success of it without some training. In the first place, no one except an expert can detect the difference between the males and females; always one should have a guaranty that they are properly mated.

An excess of cocks will result in the production of small and unhealthy squabs.

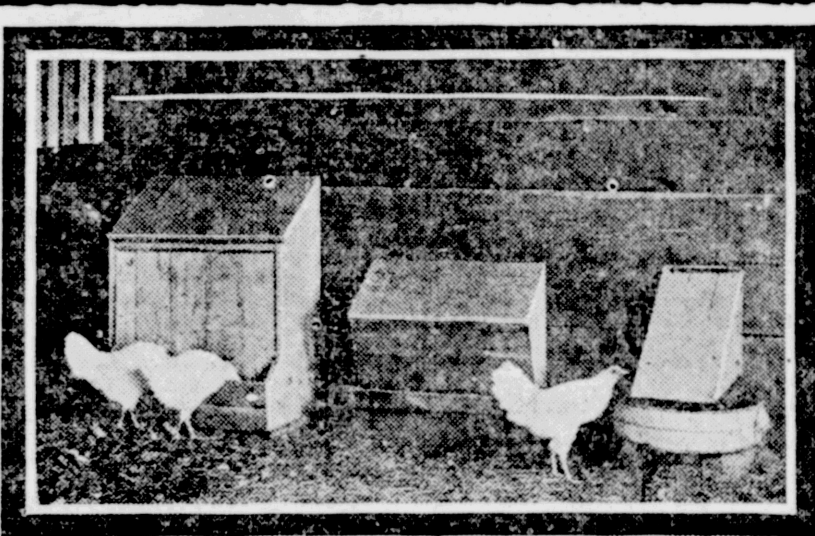

There is no fixed system in the raising of squabs. Like swimming, it must be learned from actual experience.

Pigeons require perfect ventilation, roomy quarters, because overcrowding is fatal. They must never be exposed to bad weather, and improper feeding will quickly destroy a flock.

Pigeons are very cleanly in their habits, and when they have the opportunity they will take a thorough water bath at least once a day. If they are denied this, they will soon contract disease and die. In warm weather the water should be changed every day.

If one is content to start with a small flock, provide good quarters, learn all one can from reliable expert writers, and spend a year, at least, in experimenting, one may then go into the business in earnest and generally with very good profit.

GOOD REASONS FOR POULTRY ON FARMS

Interior of Modern Poultry House.

(By JAMES G. HALPIN, Secretary of Wisconsin Poultry Association.)

The principal reason for keeping poultry is to furnish fresh eggs and fresh meat for our own tables.

This is particularly true of the general farmer, who is usually located at some distance from a meat market and for the most part has to depend on his own meat supply, which, were it not for the chickens and ducks, would have to be secured during the summer. Few of us realize how much the poultry does toward supplying us with good things for our table.

The farmer with growing children should be especially careful to see to it that the diet is good and fresh; poultry meat and eggs are among the very best.

Too many general farmers depend on their women folks to do all of the work about the poultry yards. It is true that a large part of the work is often better done if left to the women folks, but there are certain things that should be done by the man. He should at least see to it that the house is kept well cleaned and occasionally sprayed or whitewashed. He should also see to it that the house is kept in repair and the necessary fixtures made and so arranged that the work of caring for the flock is reduced to a minimum. The old hen likes to range about the barnyard on good days, but she should have plenty of straw in her own house so that she can busy herself digging in it when the weather is bad. He should be just as careful to see to it that the hens are well bedded as on any other live stock on the farm. On stormy days, especially, the man of the house should do the feeding and take a general interest in the production instead of limiting his interest to the consumption of the groceries purchased by the eggs.

Most farmers carry on their poultry work in a hit-or-miss fashion that would spell disaster if used in all the farm operations. This is the observation made by a careful business man in a well-to-do farming community. The question follows: "Why do our general farmers neglect their poultry as they do and why do the authorities 'keep insisting that more than 90 per cent of the poultry and eggs are produced on the general farm?"

Probably the principal reason why so many farm flocks are badly neglected is because they are scrub stock and do not, therefore, excite any admiration in their owner. He looks at his poultry flock as a unit and does not worry in the least about them as individuals. We are going through a rather rapid change, however, and farm poultry is going to get better and better care.

The way this is coming about will mean a much greater production within the next few years. In the past grain was cheap and a few bushels more or less made little difference. But with grain high in price we are going to pay more and more attention to the returns from every bushel.

The best way to get most farmers interested in poultry is to get them to settle down to some particular variety. As soon as the flock is all of one size, shape and color visitors will begin to admire them. The owner will begin to pay more and more attention to them, and this extra attention will mean more winter eggs. Because as soon as the owner begins to get proud of the flock he fixes up the house, nails on the loose boards, cleans out the filth, puts in fresh straw, whitewashes the house and does everything possible to make it comfortable for the hens. He changes his attitude entirely and instead of kicking the hens out of the way gives them time to get out of the way. He begins to look at each hen as an individual and as a producer of eggs that are worth money.

Just as soon then as the owner begins to take interest in the flock, a large part of the hit-or-miss method of care disappears and in turn the hens begin to get a place in the regular farm routine just the same as the rest of the live stock.

The reason that farm poultry produces practically all of the poultry and eggs sold here in the central West is because practically all of the hens are either on general farms or town lots. We have very few poultry farms and less poultry plants. The few are often written up but they are not numerous enough so that they affect the general market by their production. The general farm is the natural place for the hen; she will produce more dollars' worth of eggs on less "chargeable" feed under general farm conditions than under any other conditions because the hen naturally fits into the scheme of general farming, utilizing feed otherwise wasted, helping to destroy insect pests, etc.

Ferret pests is a subject that is getting to be of greater and greater importance. In many sections we find that the birds that are the natural destroyers of insects are getting thinned out to such an extent that some substitute must be found. The farmer's flock of chickens can be used to splendid advantage as grasshopper catchers and at the same time prove profitable. Thus we have troublesome insects removed from the farm and converted into egg or poultry meat. The farm grows larger crops and the chickens have fuller "crops" made up largely from the natural waste on the farm.

While oyster shells are necessary in poultry diet, they must not be given with the idea of taking the place of grit. They are too soft for that purpose.

"My wife made me a success," remarked the man. "I am glad to hear you say that," declared his pastor. "Yes, she has always wanted so many things that I've just had to hustle."—Topeka Journal.

Section One.—Resolved, that any and all expense incurred and any and all money for the payment of which the city has become liable, in the elimination of the Washington avenue grade crossing in said city, amounting to the sum of $24,372.17, being the city's proportionate part of the cost and expense incurred in the elimination thereof, be raised and paid, and the same is hereby directed and authorized to be raised and paid, by the payment of the sum of $372.17 thereof from the general fund, and by the issuance of bonds, and the money realized by the sale of bonds in the total sum of $24,000.00, as herein provided.

Section Two.—Resolved, that in order to pay said twenty-four thousand dollars aforesaid, the city of Kingston may borrow money for the purpose of paying the same, and the same hereby is pledged for the payment of said bonds; that such bonds shall bear the date of July first, nineteen hundred and fifteen, and shall draw interest from that date at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, and payable semi-annually on the first day of January and the first day of July in each year, and such bonds shall be numbered and in denominations and payable as follows:

No. 1 to 13 inclusive, in denominations of $1,000 each, payable July 1st, 1917.

A CONTRAST IN IDEALS.

International politics among the present warring European nations more closely resemble than anything else an American pugilistic ward campaign for alderman or a primary district fight for leadership where there are many scrappers. The general foreign attitude if truthfully expressed would take the form of a stump speech and general orders by the chief pugilist to the effect that "He hit me first, gents, and he's using brass knuckles, so what can I do? You see I'm fighting fair. Here, Jimmy, while the crowd's telling him he ain't fighting square, you sneak around behind him and give him a jolt on the bean with this paving block, but don't let them catch you, Jimmy, and we'll be able to tell them he aimed it himself and is only getting his just deserts. Now, gents, he hit me again when I wasn't looking, below the belt. Hustle, Jimmy."

The characteristic American love for fair play fails to see in these maneuvers anything to cause him to interfere. The average American still bears in mind who started the fight and why, and he refuses to be swayed in his judgment by the changing stage-setting and the manikins who appear in response to the string-pulling behind the scenes to scream "Foul play" and "Liar." The average American is watching closely all the fouls, the feints and the body blows delivered according to the rules to which the combatants long ago subscribed. He doesn't feel like taking part in the fight but in case any intentionally misdirected missiles come his way he wants to know from whence they came and the reason why?

W. H. E. Lecky, who by many is considered the greatest historian and critic of modern times, aptly described American Civil War conditions in his book, "The Map of Life," in which he said:

"The great Civil War in America probably contributed not a little to raise the standard of humanity in war, for while few long wars have been fought with such determination or at the cost of so many lives, very few have been conducted with such scrupulous abstinence from acts of wanton barbarity."

The majority of Americans have been reared with high ideals and the ideals of civilized warfare as established in our own Civil War still prevail among us even in the midst of barbarities elsewhere.

A bottle of water from the Prohibition state of Arizona didn't break when that state's namesake battleship was christened at the Brooklyn navy yard on Saturday by Miss Esther Ross, but a bottle of champagne which as usual formed the piece de resistance of the christening broke into fragments in the old fashioned way and allowed the joy juice to spatter around in the usual fashion. Of course the champagne makers made their glass bottle unusually thin so that there would be no mishap so far as advertising their goods was concerned. And it is quite likely that they hired some scallawag to work in the factory where the water bottle was manufactured with instructions to blow it extra thick. 'Twas ever thus that Demon Rum and his little brother Champagne have sought to perpetuate themselves and discourage the use of water even at battleship christenings. O, why did not Secretary Daniels and ex-Secretary Bryan, with their bottle-blowers' lungs and air supply become workers in glass factories when they were young instead of turning their faces toward the goal of statesmanship?

According to a dispatch from Albany, Secretary Hugo has announced that the census just taken gives Kingston a population of 24,195. It is explained that these figures were obtained by adding up the daily reports of the enumerators and that they may be changed somewhat by the official count. They will have to be changed a good deal before they come anywhere near the truth. Fifteen years ago, in 1900, Kingston had 24,535 inhabitants. Those of us who can remember so far back know that the city has grown at a striking rate during that period. Large areas of pasture land have been covered thickly with dwellings. There are many hundreds of new houses. Last year the Chamber of Commerce engaged Price, Lee & Co., the directory publishers, to take a census, and they found 26,928 residents. It has since been learned that the work was not done as thoroughly as was supposed, owing to a misunderstanding on the part of one or two of the canvassers, and there is no reasonable doubt that our population is now about 27,500. It is intolerable that we should be put down in the State census at more than three thousand less than the truth. We do not know what can be done about it, but our city government and the Chamber of Commerce should endeavor to find out if we have a remedy. It is in one way of small consequence what our population is, but it is distinctly injurious to have it appear that we are a dying community instead of the thriving town we really are.

AGAIN, THE WOMAN NOVELIST.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

By an odd little trick of chance, while yesterday's thoughts were still lingering with the woman novelist and the varied folk of her fancy, I chanced upon a briefly worded story from the pen of a woman who certainly understands what a pitifully small thing may send any one of us toppling over the brink of unhappiness. And, better, what a beautifully big thing may prevent it.

One must be strictly just—the narrative is the result of collaboration. The story is in two parts, "his" side being written by a man, "hers" by a woman; but it is her side that matters the more.

The story bears the significant title of "The Millstone," and you may guess that a wife is the hampering weight. A playwright, fighting for recognition and success, wins utter failure, and defeat sends him miles away from home and the wreck of his hopes.

In an agony of resentment, intensified by physical exhaustion, and crying nerves, he writes his wife a letter whose tenor is embodied in the brutally frank question, "Can't you realize that love may become as much of a burden sometimes as poverty or sickness?" And then, as if to close the door on any possible lingering hope, he adds: "I've come to the conclusion that man who is trying to do things—big things—is better off unmarried. I guess Cartwright knew what he was talking about when he referred to the millstone." The letter begins and ends with, "Don't come here. I don't want you, don't need you—can't you understand that?"

And that is all, except for the brutal reiterations.

Then she comes on the stage, first writing a telegram announcing that he will be no longer burdened with "the millstone," as she is leaving for her old home. Reflection leads her to destroy that, and then comes an impassioned letter voicing all the hurt and the exceeding pain—but this, too, goes the way of the dispatch, and she writes a second letter, this time telling more than her love, showing her sacrifice, the worries and economies hidden to spare him vexing detail, and ringing with a recital of unselfish devotion. But the outpouring of her heart is only on paper—it never reaches him.

And then comes the letter that passes from her hands to his.

It is simplicity itself, never a hint of the grievous hurt, just complete, sympathetic understanding, redolent of sweet womanhood. She tells him of her appreciation of his need of solitude and meets the brutality born of nervousness and disappointment with the understanding of perfect love, adds a few little homely details, says "Good night," and the letter is closed.

And the combined work of the authors carries us so that there would be no mishap so far as advertising their goods was concerned. And it is quite likely that they hired some scallawag to work in the factory where the water bottle was manufactured with instructions to blow it extra thick. 'Twas ever thus that Demon Rum and his little brother Champagne have sought to perpetuate themselves and discourage the use of water even at battleship christenings. O, why did not Secretary Daniels and ex-Secretary Bryan, with their bottle-blowers' lungs and air supply become workers in glass factories when they were young instead of turning their faces toward the goal of statesmanship?

And isn't it first-class material for the beginning of "The little rift within the lute, That by and by will make the music mute, And ever widening slowly silence all."

In the series of unselfish telegrams and letters her emotions are all bared and the selfishly human, uppermost in times of sore hurt, would have led many foolish folk in the hour of their trial to hurry the dispatch away with its message of finality, only to wait in bitterness of spirit for the denouement. For these make-believe stories have their counterparts in life every time, and we know too well the sorry endings of many such trials of love.

Scarcely one in a hundred—is that a small estimate—would let herself forget that awful "millstone" long enough to dwell upon the sensitive heart that wanted simply to be alone, with no one to see the struggles and the workings of failure. He was wretchedly brutal, and his is not the manner of love that appeals strongly; but to her it had appealed, and still was in the ascendant. How wise, how infinitely wise to have stifled all the natural recriminations and resentments if she was still looking for the banner of happiness to float over their home-craft, and leave it to time to work out in a better way, without those heavy shadows, "millstone" and all.

Yes, it is only a story, but out in the world of realities are the sure-enough tragedies that settle for just such a little cause or are turned aside—because somebody works out her life-problem to a happier finish. And if a woman's pen can be so cleverly wielded that the men and women of her fancy throw a revealing light upon life and show the unwisdom of following blind impulse when it sends one's most cherished ship on the rocks, then her brief little story, or more pretentious novel, is mightily worth while.

Professor Poussin, the Belgian Refugee professor at Harvard, was paired, at a dinner in his honor, by the applause and cheers which greeted his description of ruined Louvain and wrecked Liege. But when it was explained to Prof. Poussin that the Harvard professors and students had a very slight knowledge of French—he had spoken in French—his perplexity vanished, and he smiled.

"I see," he said. "I see. It is like the case of Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith, an American, said to his wife at a Paris restaurant: 'Strange! I spoke to the proprietor in French and he didn't understand me.'"

"Well," said Mrs. Smith, "no wonder. He's a Frenchman."

Old School Genius.

Robert W. Chambers, the novelist, was talking about a writer of the past.

"They call him a genius now," said Mr. Chambers, "yet he produced very, very little. There's an anecdote that tells the reason why."

"He was arrested one night and the magistrate asked him what his business was."

"The critics," he answered, haughtily, "call me a genius, your honor."

"Indeed!" said the magistrate. "And how old are you?"

"Forty-six."

I used to go about two miles in the jungle, shoot my food, skin or pluck it, then cook and eat it, and return to the camp under the half hour. Then he unwisely added: "Of course, you have heard of the west coast!"

"Yes, sir," replied the young soldier. "And also of Ananias and Baron Munchausen."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

HURLEY COOKING ATTRACTED BURGLAR

John Golski, who claims to hail from Coatesville, Pa., was found in the cellar of Abram Elmendorf at Old Hurley Sunday evening, where he had forced an entrance in order to get something to eat, and after a brief struggle with Mr. Elmendorf was overpowered and brought to jail.

Mr. Elmendorf had retired for the night when he heard a noise in his cellar. He supposed that the cat had remained indoors for the night and had found its way to the cellar. He went to the cellar and turned on the light. Instead of a cat he saw a man crouching behind the furnace, and although clothed only in his nightgown, he leaped on the intruder and began a struggle.

Mr. Elmendorf had overpowered the stranger when Mrs. Elmendorf, who had heard the racket, appeared at the top of the stairs. Her husband directed her to bring him his trusty rifle, and with this he covered the burglar while Mrs. Elmendorf dressed hastily and went to the home of Deputy Sheriff Charles Roosa across the street. Mr. Roosa brought the burglar to jail.

When questioned at the court house as to why he had entered the house, Golski said he wanted something to eat.

Hurley residents know they have been famous for generations for their good cooking, especially the members of the Elmendorf family in all its branches, but until now they never knew that their fame had spread among the knights of the road who would take the risk of going to jail in order to satisfy themselves that the reputations were well earned.

This morning Golski was allowed to go.

Before Recorder Lang.

Richard Walsh, William Lapp and Joseph Partington were arrested on Saturday evening for creating a disturbance at the carnival at Athletic Field. Sunday morning, when arraigned before Recorder Lang, the first two men were fined $3 each, which they paid, and Joseph was discharged.

James Wagner was arrested on Saturday by Policeman Boyd for selling court plaster without a license. He was discharged with a reprimand on Sunday by Recorder Lang.

Fred Elmendorf, a negro, was arrested on Sunday by Policeman Boyd for shooting craps. The case was adjourned until Tuesday.

A great day is expected on June 27, when Accord, Leithardt and Krippelbush unite in a day of worship at Krippelbush Church. Rev. F. Deming, the district superintendent, is to preach morning and evening. He will also conduct the afternoon service.

R. H. Turner and family have moved back to Accord. We are glad to see them among us again.

J. M. Schoonmaker has been treating his house to a new summer dress. The properties are much improved.

Auto parties are often seen stopping at Accord Villa for dinner. A fine home-like place to get a good meal while out driving.

Not a Credit to the Community.

We wouldn't like to be classed as a knocker, and yet we feel it our duty to call attention to the fact that our town calaboose is getting to be a mighty shoddy looking affair. There is hardly a self-respecting man in town that would be willing to spend a night in it as it is now.—Atkins (Okla.) Chronicle.

ITALIANS ARE BEING REPULSED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Vienna, June 21.—Repulse of Italian attacks by the Austrians all along the line in the southwestern theater of war was officially announced today. The official statement says that the Italians have bombarded the Austrian positions without success and that the operations are costing the invaders heavily in human life.

The text of the official statement of the war office follows:

"Following the repulse of weak Italian attacks near Plava, Enonchi and Monfalcone, quiet reigned on the Isonzo front since Friday."

"On the Isonzo and Carinthian front the enemy shelled our positions without result."

"Attacks on our positions east of the Fassa Valley were undertaken by at least a brigade, the enemy being repulsed with heavy losses. At one point the corpses of 175 Italian soldiers were counted upon the field after the attacking forces had been driven off."

Where Presidents Name Governors.

Alexander Hamilton was defeated in his attempt to give the president of the United States the power to appoint the governors of the states. In Spanish-American countries his ideal is generally realized.

The president of Colombia appoints the governor of each department, and the governor appoints the prefects and mayors. The president of Peru appoints the prefects, these the sub-prefects, and the latter name the governors. Reports flow up this official staircase, and orders flow down, so that the whole administration dances to Lima's piping.

In Chile there is a complete chain from president through intendant, governor and subdelegate to inspector. There are municipal councils for cities, but nowhere is there a place for the county, as we know it, electing its own prosecutor, judge and sheriff.—Edward Alsworth Ross in Century Magazine.

How the Rash Comes.

In measles a rash appears on the fourth day of the fever. It is first seen on the forehead, face and neck, afterward over the whole body. It consists of raised red spots. In scarlet fever the rash appears on the second day of the fever, commencing on the upper part of the chest and neck, whence it spreads over the body. In smallpox an eruption is seen on the third or fourth day on the face, neck and wrists. In chicken pox the eruption is made of small blebs. In typhoid fever the rash rarely shows itself before the seventh day of the fever. The spots are rose colored, and they disappear on pressure.

Know Paint

There's a paint-education in this advertisement.

Buy by the job, not gallon. Buy by the paint put-on; that's the job. The price of paint is so much a gallon; that can't be helped, but amounts to nothing.

The price of painting is so much a day; that can't be helped, but amounts to nothing. Put them together. How can you do it? You've got to or lose perhaps half of your money.

Devoe, 10 gallons enough for the average job; an average paint; 15. Now reckon your cost. Count labor a day for a gallon. Devoe 10 days; the other 15.

Devoe about $50; the average paint about $70 or $80; the dearer the labor the bigger the difference, always that way.

But that's for the job. How long is it going to last? One twice as long as the other.

DEVOE.

THE LESSON OF THE CHICAGO ELECTION

Some Interesting Side Lights on Woman's Activities.

An editorial in the New York Evening Sun April 7 says:

The vote of the women proved to be essentially insignificant. A great many women voted, but for all the effect they had on the result they might as well have stayed at home. Such small effect as can be traced in the most accurate figures now available was helpful to Thompson, but he didn't need any help. This was the way the vote stood:

Thompson, Sweetzer, Plurality.
Men	231,113	155,420
Women	136,529	86,629
Totals	367,642	242,049

The Chicago papers show a determination to avoid criticizing the suffragists. Hence the following statement signed by Henry M. Hyde, presumably of the Chicago Tribune staff, is very pertinent and eminently trustworthy. It is reproduced from the April 7 issue of that newspaper, a suffrage journal owned by a suffrage leader.

In explaining his temerity the writer says: "Not the bravest man in Chicago would dare to criticize, no matter how mildly, any of the manifold manifestations of feminism. But perhaps a newspaper reporter may venture to set down some of the things he saw—particularly since he is planning to go out of town immediately."

His illuminating story is in part as follows (the black face is ours):

"She was a woman approaching middle age, with touches of silver in her hair. She was well but not expensively dressed. Her face was gentle, and there were soft lines in it which seemed to indicate a thoughtful mind. She was standing on the sidewalk in front of the Thompson headquarters on Randolph street, close up to the building. In both hands she clutched a big megaphone.

"She was trying hard to make herself heard above the wild storm of sound, but the voice which came from the trumpet was neither shrill nor over-loud. It sounded like a vastly exaggerated coo:

"'Everybody vote for Thompson. We want Big Bill! We want Big Bill!' The whole sidewalk for a block was swarming with a shifting, changing mass of yelling people, old and young, of both sexes.

"Through it all the lady with the megaphone stood close to the building in front of the Thompson headquarters and bleated impotently through her huge mouthpiece. One had to be within two feet to distinguish the words.

"Men foraging their way through the jam stopped and looked at her and smiled. It was rather like seeing one's maiden aunt leaning up against the bar in a saloon.

"She would not be worth notice but for the fact that during the work of irrational hysteria which preceded election day she was many times multiplied. She may stand as a type of a surprisingly large class.

"The first majority campaign in which women voters participated somehow failed to develop the refining and elevating influence which the sex was expected to exert.

"It was at the downtown meeting of a club organized and presided over by a woman that the nearest approach to a real riot broke out, and women partisans took a leading part in the yelling, catcalling and general disorder which prevented either men or women speakers from making themselves heard from the stage.

"When one sees a woman of dignified presence and cultivated appearance greeted with torrents of hisses and insults from the frenzied lips of both men and other women, when one sees her finally driven from the platform with no chance of speaking a word, one is tempted to retire to some quiet spot for a moment and meditate on what it all means.

"When one watches a venerable lady, with snowy hair and gracious presence, trying to quell the tumult by waving a flag and almost dancing in the same rhythm, while 1,200 shrieking men and women order her to sit down and chase herself, one remembers his own grandmother and makes a feeble effort to blush.

"One is almost tempted to pick that discarded and discredited old relic once known as masculine chivalry out of the scrap heap and see how many people would recognize it.

"The first riot was at a Sweetzer meeting. By way of being entirely impartial it may be said that the next day exactly the same thing happened in the same place at a Thompson meeting.

"At the big political headquarters other things of somewhat the same complexion were to be seen. Masculine politicians were in supreme charge. But each had opened subsidiary headquarters for women voters.

"'Yes,' said one of the cynical male chiefs, 'we've got two headquarters for the ladies. We put them at opposite ends of the building, because the two old girls we've got in charge of them would pull each other's hair out if they ever met.'"

A PAIR OF SHOESTRINGS.

The Matter of Length and How to Tie a Bowknot That Will Hold.

A shoestring is "six-fourths" long when one does not specify the length required. "Six-fourths of what?" is likely to be the question put by the layman.

When a man buys a new pair of shoes the strings in them are just long enough. When he buys the next pair of shoestrings they are too long. The strings that come with the shoes are four-fourths long, the next pair will be six-fourths unless the purchaser asks for and can get four-fourths.

These lengths have to do with men's high shoes. There is not the same trouble in the case of low shoes.

Some shoestrings will wear a long time, but they will become brown. Others will not wear so long, but will retain their original blackness. The strong strings that turn brown are of linen or very strong cotton. The others are of mixed fibers that hold their color.

Many people prefer the less durable shoestring, not only because it holds its color, but because being of a less hard fiber it stays tied better than the other. A few of the millions of shoestring wearers know how to tie a bowknot that won't come untied. The method can be explained without a diagram.

Instead of tucking the bow once over before drawing the knot tight, tuck it twice over. A fiddle string used for a shoestring would not come untied if the knot were made in that way. This knot can be untied in the same way as the other, by pulling at the ends.—Philadelphia Record.

Vice of Earth Eating.

In certain parts of tropical America the natives are much addicted to geophagy, or earth eating. The injurious habit of earth eating is formed almost from the hour of their birth, and mothers, to quiet a squalling child, will give it a lump of clay pulled from the wall of their hut. As the children grow up the longing increases, and to gratify the yearning they will barter their very souls for a lump of white clay, beside which delicate spirits and tobacco are reckoned of no account. This vice is, in the long run, fatal, producing dropsy in the young and dysentery in the middle aged. Those thoroughly in its grip are judged worthless as servants.—Pearson's.

Penman—What's your brother doing now?
Wright—Oh, he's a space writer.
"Space writer?"
"Yes, he's writing up astronomy."—Yonkers Statesman.

Cordite.

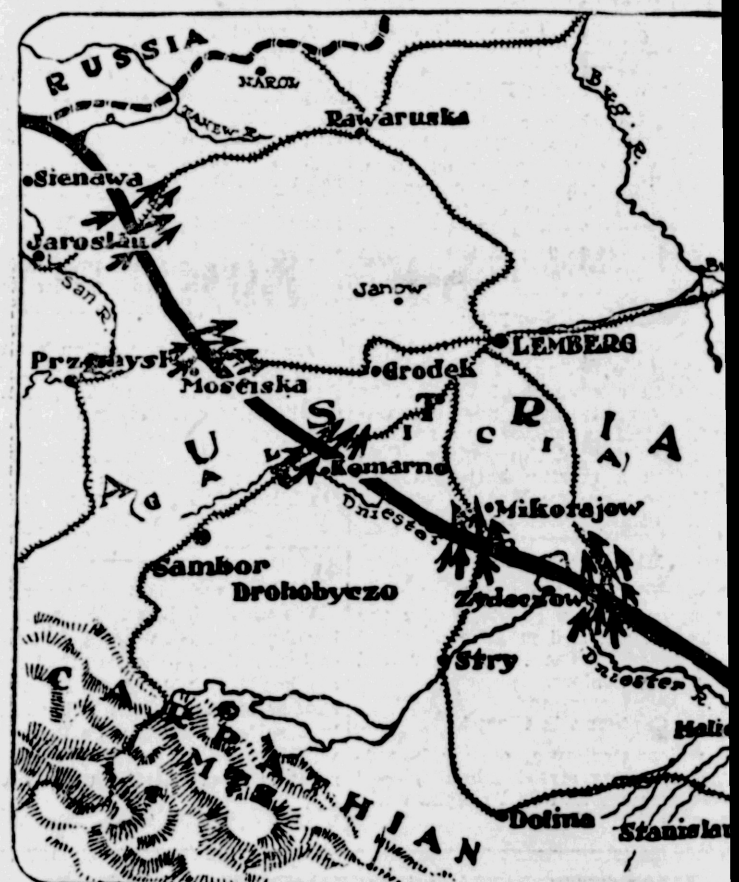

Cordite, the British service propellant used in all arms, from the army revolver to the fifteen inch naval gun, may be taken as a general type of modern gunpowders. Its name is derived from the circumstance that it is manufactured in the shape of string or cord, varying from one-thirtieth of an inch to nearly half an inch in diameter. It was devised by the ordnance committee over which Sir Frederick Abel presided in 1891, with Sir James Dewar as scientific adviser. It is a mixture of gun cotton and nitroglycerin, with a small amount of mineral jelly to act as a lubricant and preservative.—London Globe.

Curing a Fibber.

While a writer was passing a New England schoolhouse a boy came out and began pulling down the flag—a strange proceeding, since it was not storming nor was it time for the school to be dismissed. The teacher was curious and entered the schoolhouse to inquire the reason. The teacher pointed to a boy who was trying to hide behind his desk, and said, "Charley, there, has told a lie, and the flag has to come down, for Old Glory stands for truth and must not wave over a school with a liar in it."—Exchange.

Imposing Celebration.

 The Knights of Columbus will hold a safe and sane celebration of Independence Day on the lawn in front of the city hall at 10 o'clock a. m. on July 5. Prominent speakers have signified their intention of taking part in the exercises and a large chorus of children recruited from all the schools of the entire city will sing the national airs, accompanied by Muller's full band. It is the desire of the Knights of Columbus to instill patriotism and love of country in all classes of our population and in particular to impress these lessons on the children of our city. For this reason they particularly appeal to all teachers of city schools to encourage all the children to join the grand chorus which will sing the patriotic songs of the country and to turn out in large numbers. Trolley cars will be provided to take the children to the city hall from both uptown and downtown and ample seating arrangements will be made to accommodate all. Each child will be provided with a flag and with a copy of the songs which will be used. All officials of the city and county have been invited and reservations have been made for them on the ground.
 The complete program will be announced in a later issue.

LARRY CHAPPELL GOES BACK TO MINORS

Laverne Chappell, Now With Minneapolis Team in the American Association.

Larry Chappell, the young outfielder whom the Chicago American league club purchased from the Milwaukee club for $13,500 in cash and players worth $3,000 more, has been released to the Minneapolis American association team. Chappell was born on February 19, 1891, at Jerseyville, Ill., about forty-six miles from St. Louis, where his father is engaged in the grain business. He made his professional debut with the Quincy club of the I. L. I. league in 1910, but was sold by Quincy to the Eau Claire club of the Wisconsin-Illinois league for $100. Chappell finished that season and part of 1911 with Eau Claire and was then purchased by the Milwaukee club of the American association. With that club Chappell developed rapidly in 1912 and 1913, and when Chicago bought him in 1913 he was leading the American association batsmen with .356 for 81 games. When Chappell reported to the White Sox he was in bad shape as the result of injuries, but was forced to play regularly. His work was not up to the standard and he was immediately dubbed an exploded phenom. Chappell is a left-handed hitter and right-handed thrower.

DIAMOND NOTES

Heine Groh is the leading hitter of the National League.

Red Corriden was such bad luck to the Cubs that Bresnahan disposed of him on general principles.

Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federal league team, is to retire as a player at the close of this season.

Hughie Jennings is complaining that the Tigers are not being supported by the fans in Detroit as they should be.

The fans of Philadelphia have gone
"daffy" about the playing of Dave Bancroft, the new shortstop of the Phillies.

Umpire Chill was hot during a recent game and chased three athletes off the field—with the thermometer near freezing.

"I get sick of baseball politics and intrigue," remarks C. Holliday Ebbets, one of the inventors of baseball politics and intrigue.

Manager Stallings, of the Braves, is authority for the statement that Schmidt, his first baseman, is the best initial sacker in the game.

But little is heard of the famous pitching trio of the Boston Braves—
Rudolph, James and Tyler—up to date.
But the season is young as yet.

Flame Delhi, the big red-headed pitcher with the White Sox three years ago in Texas, is now with the Kansas City Blues and doing well.

It was thought Boston and Brooklyn had great young shortstops in Maranville and O'Mara, but neither one has anything on Bancroft of the Phillies.

John McGraw has been at his wits' end to devise some method of starting his Giants on the upgrade, but so far he has found nothing to start a rally with.

Harry Davis and Larry Lajoie are not saying much, but they are laughing up their sleeves over the misfortune of Joe Birmingham, just the same.

There is another report out regarding the Kansas City franchise. Rumor says that Indianapolis is to be brought back into the league, forcing the Packers out.

Grover Alexander might win the penalty for the Phillies if he could only pitch every game. His work is the main reason why the team is up in the front rank.

Benny Kauff was not fined $1,500 for his leap to the Giants, according to the Brookfords. The only loss Benny suffered was his salary for the days he was suspended.

Same Old Sandwiches.
"Nothing but caviar sandwiches," complained the man in the depot restaurant. "Why do you have nothing on sale in the way of sandwiches but caviar?" "They don't show coal dust," responded the waitress, briefly.—Puck.

NEW INDIAN FIRST BASEMAN

Joe Jackson is Seventh Southerner in Succession to Hold Down Initial Sack for Cleveland.

The designation of Joe Jackson as the Indian first sacker makes Joe the seventh son of Dixie in succession who has been appointed to the task of guarding Cleveland's initial cushion.
As long as George Stovall held the fort against all comers, Dixie first sackers had no chance, but when

Joe Jackson of Cleveland.

Brother George moved on to St. Louis, the southerner received his chance. Ed Hohnhorst of Kentucky came first, followed by Art Griggs of Texas. Doc Johnston of Tennessee held the job for two years, giving way this year to Roy Wood of Arkansas, Frank Shields of Mississippi and Walter Bar-bare of South Carolina.

Now Joe Jackson, another South
Carolinian, is on the job.

RETORT COURTEOUS

The last time the Braves and the Giants clashed Stallings' men went after Chief Meyer's men rough shod. They evidently believed they could get the Chief's
"nanny" by applying some warm names to him. "Lord" Byron was unhappy strikes and balls. He was feeling quite peevish, and the cackling of the Braves in their verbal assault on Meyers irritated him still more. Suddenly he whirled and walked to the Braves' bench.

"Mr. Stallings," he said, "I want you to make your men cut out them personalities. Understand me? Cut out them personalities."

All went quiet. Byron majestically stalked back to the plate and was just donning his mask when a voice piped up from the Braves' bench:

"All right, Mr. Byron; all right.
But you cut out them grammar. Do you understand? Cut out them grammar."

TRAPPED A SEAGULL

Quar Contest of Strength Between a Bird and a Bivalve.

At first thought it is hard to imagine how a clam could endanger the life of a bird. That such a strange circumstance is not impossible is shown by the following incident:

A settler on one of the small islands near Vancouver was returning to his home by way of a beach of hard sand when he beheld an unusually large flock of seagulls gathered in a compact mass and beating with beaks and wings upon the sand. Evidently they were attacking some enemy. Overhead dozens of gulls wheeled and screamed in evident excitement.

The settler was almost upon the fighting birds before they burst apart and flew, chattering, toward the clouds.
One, however, lay flapping upon the ground, and the man saw that a monster clam held the gull's beak in a vise-like grip. It was too heavy for the bird to fly away with, and for all the gull's frantic struggles it could not loosen the clam's tenacious grip.

With his hunting knife the man prried open the shells and freed the captive. The gull was exhausted from its desperate efforts and at first could only stagger like a drunken sailor toward the water. Finally, however, it flew away and soon returned in the van of a cloud of gulls come to inspect the enemy that had trapped one of their tribe.—St. Andrews Beacon.

Lip Reading Detectives.

In a Vienna school for the deaf and dumb, where lip reading is taught, a course has been established for the special purpose of teaching the art to detectives. The possibilities of lip reading, says the author of the account in the Volta Review, have been exaggerated. But they are sufficient to cause authorities to think the instruction of detectives worth while. When a detective becomes proficient, he is able to learn something of the conversation between people who are visible, but out of earshot. The article says that at from 50 to 100 feet it is possible for an expert to get the general run of a conversation. Some reading has been done with glasses at a distance of 125 feet.
Instruction and practice in the art must be very thorough if the detective is to use it to real advantage in his work.

Transforming Clothesline Posts.

A suburban resident grew tired of the wooden clothesline posts in his back yard. He incased them in chicken wire netting and planted sprouts of honeysuckle around the posts. He then nailed a little bird house to the top of each. In a short time the honeysuckle had completely covered the unsightly posts and a pair of bluebirds built a nest in one of the houses. Many of this man's neighbors took up the idea, and honeysuckle vines and bird houses now make the clothesline posts of his locality a pride to their owners.—House and Garden.

Her Other Half.

Society Dame—Oh, doctor, I'm so sorely troubled with ennui. Doctor—H'm! Why don't you interest yourself in finding out how the other half lives? Society Dame—Gracious! Why, I'm not looking for a divorce.—Chicago

Time Something Started.

"Have you noticed the clock?" he asked at the hour of midnight.
"Yes, I have," she replied, with a yawn.
"It hasn't been going for three hours."
"Neither have you."—Yonkers Statesman.

Deserved Tribute.

possible to preserve Plymouth Rock."
"And I don't blame ye. New England owes a heap to that breed of hen."

of the physicians, and Superintendent Isabel Patten, of the nurses.

FRENCH GUN

FRENCH BIG GUNS WILL SOON EQUAL THOSE OF THE GERMANS.

Photo shows one of the new French 351 millimeter guns, which the Creuzot works is now turning out at a rapid rate to effect the 4 centimetre variety used by their German foes. At the outbreak of the war, the French were not prepared in the artillery line as were the Germans, but as the conflict progressed the Creuzot works rallied and is now turning out an almost unbelievable amount of artillery. Probably the most famous gun of the French is the well known 75 millimetre which although much smaller than most of the German artillery, has proved to be very effective. The French artillerymen have acquired a sure aim and the fire from their field pieces has been destructive to the German positions. Several hundred of the 75 variety as well as a large number of the 351s have been engaged in shelling the German position near Lens, north of Arras, where this photograph was taken.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 21.—A tiny Chinese billiken, with an intrinsic value of not more than $1, has brought first place honors to every automobile dare-devil who has carried it into a race.

Ralph De Palma had the little billiken tucked away in his jeans when he went to the post in the recent Indianapolis speedway race and De Palma carried away first place honors by establishing the amazing record of nearly 90 miles an hour for the 500 mile race.

The possession of that talisman is the highest ambition of every racer in the country because its possession seems to assure success in every speedway battle.

Miss Ethel Abbott, a Los Angeles girl, gave the billiken its start in the racing world. She was a great admirer of Billy Carson, the speed demon, and a few days before Carson entered a race she sent it to him.

"Keep the little billiken-man with you, Billy," she advised. "I am sure it will bring you luck."

Carson, like nearly every other man who flirts with death, was superstitious and because he was, he tucked the little billiken in his pocket.

Some time later the billiken fell into the hands of Firestone Smith. Carson probably gave it to him thinking that the billiken was limited to only one victory.

On the day before Earl Cooper, Barney Oldfield, and others met in an auto battle in Phoenix, Ariz., Smith handed the billiken to Cooper.

"Carson carried this into a race and he said it won for him," said Smith. "Stick it in your pocket and give it a trial."

Cooper won the next day—and he gave the credit for the victory to the billiken.

Cooper wanted to keep the billiken—he offered Smith a large sum of money for it—but Smith insisted upon the return of the little hunk of clay.

"Can't be any monopoly on this," he said. "It's got to make the rounds."

Smith loaned the billiken to Eddie Puller on the night before the Corona, C. I. race and Puller was an easy winner.

Just before the San Diego Exposition opened speculation was rife among automobile men as to who would win the big race on the following day.

"Earl Cooper is going to win," said Smith.

Everyone laughed at him. Cooper was considered a rank outsider. "Bet your money on Cooper, boys," advised Smith, "because I'm going to loan the little billiken man to him."

Smith did. Cooper carried the billiken into the race with him, and Cooper was the winner.

Resta, the English-Italian whirlwind, had possession of the billiken when he entered the Grand Prix race—and Resta won. Resta begged of Smith to loan the billiken to him for the Vanderbilt cup race, Smith did—and once again Resta was the winner.

When Barney Oldfield entered the big race at Venice, Cal., the little billiken reposed in his jeans—and Oldfield beat the field. When Oldfield raced at Tucson, Ariz., he had the billiken with him once more—and once again he was the victor. Practically every driver who entered the big Indianapolis race on Decoration Day wanted the little billiken. Each would have paid any price for its loan just for that event. Smith had promised it to Oldfield, but when Barney announced his withdrawal, he flipped a coin to decide whether Resta or De Palma would get it. De Palma won, he got the billiken—and he won the race.

Quite a Possibility.

A man met another, and while not remembering who he was, but feeling certain that he was acquainted with him, held out his hand and said: "I am sure I have met you somewhere."

"No doubt," was the reply. "I have been there often."

RED MONOGRAMS SPLIT EVEN

That Tommy Clark lacked practice was plainly evident to the 2,000 fans who saw the Monogram-Wappingers Falls Tri-County League game at McVey's field Sunday afternoon. Tommy hadn't pitched for two years and consequently was not up to his former standard of effectiveness. He walked seven players, and of the first four runs scored by the visitors only one run was earned.

The walking of those men proved very costly to the Monograms and is largely responsible for the result of the game—9 to 7 in favor of the visitors. Clark was splendidly supported. Robins, behind the bat, seemed to be having an off day, and several errors on his part helped enlarge the Wappingers Falls tally.

Thirteen good, clean hits were made off Clark's delivery. There is no doubt, however, but what Clark has the qualifications of a good twirler, and will undoubtedly make good after getting a sufficient amount of practice. Spratt and Avery were the Wappingers battery.

Wappingers was quickly retired in the first inning. For the Monograms, Bedford walked, McLean sacrificed. Wisner drove for two bags, scoring Bedford. Robins flew out to Perry and Connors succumbed on a fly foul. One run.

A goose egg was what the visitors received in the second inning. A fine two bagger by Clark for the Monograms is all the home team was allotted.

The third inning resulted in two runs for Wappingers; nothing for the Monograms.

In the fourth a brilliant double play by Connors and Cook prevented Wappingers from scoring. For the Monograms, Cy Connors hit the pill for a home run, and was loudly applauded.

Wappingers secured two more runs in the fifth. Dolan walked and Perry's three bagger brought him home. Wisner drove for a high one to left. McLean captured it, making what seemed to be an impossible catch. Perry came home before the sphere could reach Robins.

The Monograms also made two runs in this inning. Bedford led off with a safe hit to right. McLean reached first on a short liner. Cook bunted and reached first. The bases were now covered. Robins sacrificed, forcing Bedford off third. Connors bunted and forced McLean off third. Rice followed with a splendid two bagger, scoring Connors and Cook. Schwab struck out.

The sixth inning resulted in a goose egg for both sides.

In the seventh Wisner of Wappingers hit for three bags. Matty Clark walked and Avery sent a long single to left, but McLean was on his job and made another star catch. Wisner scored. One run.

For the Monograms Bill Cook made the longest and cleanest hit seen at McVey's this season. A home run was Bill's reward.

In their part of the eighth, the visitors added four runs to their tally. Lahey hit for a homer. Perry made a three bagger.

The Monograms added two runs to their score in the eighth.

In the ninth McLean made his third star catch. Neither side scored.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Monograms—1 0 0 1 2 0 1 2 0—7
Wappingers—0 0 2 0 2 0 1 4 0—9

Monograms Win the Second Game.

Owing to the lack of time, it was agreed that the second contest should last but seven innings. Scherer and Cragin were the Monogram battery. Avery and Houlton for Wappingers. This proved to be a fast, snappy game. Scherer was in fine form and twirled magnificently.

The first inning resulted in one for Wappingers; nothing for the Monograms.

In the second the Monograms began getting a line on the visitors' twirler. Rice binged for three bags. Robins followed with a terrific drive to right and brought home Rice. One run.

In the third inning McLean distinguished himself by capturing a very difficult fly to left, preventing Wappingers from scoring.

For the Monograms, Bedford walked for a single. McLean sacrificed. Cook "was there" again with a fine bingle to center, scoring Bedford. Connors flew out to Perry at center. Rice hit to left and scored Cook. Robins was thrown out at first. Two runs.

It was in this inning that Lahey, of Wappingers, who had been disputing Umpire O'Toole all the afternoon, was sent to the bench and Wisner was substituted.

In the sixth Matty Clark hit the pill for a home run for Wappingers. No more runs were scored by either side.

Besides McLean at left field, others who distinguished themselves by brilliant plays were Cook at first, Connors at second, Rice at third, Connors at short stop and Smedes at right field.

It was universally conceded that had Scherer been sent to the pitcher's mound earlier in the afternoon, the Monograms would have won both games in a walk.

The score of the second game by innings:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7
Monograms—0 1 2 0 0 0 X—3
Wappingers—1 0 0 0 0 1 0—2

On Saturday afternoon the Monograms will play the crack Hustlers of Poughkeepsie at McVey's. Manager Wetmore of the Bridge City promises to be on the job with his zesty sweater and his inevitable megaphone.

His Discovery.

After a visit to a well-known entomologist, whose wonderful microscopes have proved that there is always some living thing to be found preying on the last of the minutest creatures last seen, a New York writer turned to him and said: "I came here believing myself to be an individual. I leave knowing myself to be a community."
